Organized Labor to Make Big Fight for His Return.

CLAIM ARREST WAS UNLAWFUL

Former Bookkeeper in Iron Workers' Office Reveals His Idea of Dynamiting Cases—Unions to Stick Together.

Indianapolis, April 26.—Backed by all the influence of organized labor, as represented in this city by the international officers of six organizations, a movement has been started to force the return here of J. J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the Iron Workers, on the ground that he was taken unlawfully from the state.

As outlined by one of the national union officers the warrants will be made for kidnapping with view to bringing out the fact that McNamara was not permitted to employ a lawyer or make any defense before the court to which he was taken for identification.

John R. Cook, formerly a bookkeeper in the office of the iron workers, will be one of the witnesses against McNamara. He told the story of the fight between the iron workers and the Erectors' Association and said the latter had the iron workers whipped.

Cook said: "I am sure when it was found that the union had lost its struggle with the employers, J. W. McNamara came here and told J. J. McNamara there was only one weapon left and that was dynamite; that if a few places where non-union men were employed on steel work were blown up with dynamite, then charging it to the incompetence of non-union workmen, the union might yet win from the employers. I think possibly J. W. may have talked J. J. into this scheme. After the first explosion or two, I imagine they may have been in it so deeply that J. J. McNamara could not back out, and he may have been induced to stick to it. Of course, this is all based on the mere theory that he may have been misled.

"I am sure J. J. McNamara did not place the dynamite which was found in the basement after his arrest, but I believe he knew it was there. McNamara's accounts will be found absolutely straight."

At a meeting of the principal officers of most of the unions which have international headquarters in Indianapolis, held at the building of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, the Structural Iron Workers were assured of the support of the other unions. It is said the purpose was to consider the McNamara case in its aspect of a capitalistic effort against organized labor.

It is said that no steps were taken to start a campaign among all the international organizations looking toward the raising of a defense fund for McNamara, but that several times during the meeting it was said that there was no doubt the allied unions would stand together and help finance a fight to the last ditch.

Detective Burns Is Arrested.
Indianapolis, April 26.—William J. Burns, head of the Burns National Detective Agency, was arrested on a kidnapping charge just after he had left the Claypool hotel, where he had been in hiding all day from constables. Constable Wilson made the arrest after following Burns from the elevator of the hotel. Burns said he was on his way to give himself up, having known of the warrant. Burns was released under $10,000 bonds.

Rivard, secretary and treasurer of local lodge No. 648, of the Loyal Americans, and record keeper of Crescent State Tent No. 159 of the Modern Maccabees, has disappeared from Grand Rapids, leaving behind him a wife and two small children and the greatly perturbed membership of the local Loyal Americans who have learned that Rivard withdrew their funds, amounting to $162.70, from the bank before his departure.

With Rivard went a small tan suitcase said to contain records of the lodge.

The trip is regarded as a part of the campaign to place the governor in line for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He has accepted many invitations to speak.

Boys Try Jobbing Stunt On Tag Day

PROVE THEMSELVES MASTERS OF FINANCE—SELL TAGS FOR PERSONAL PROFIT.

Logansport, Ind., April 26.—Juvenile financiers "cleaned up" through a "tag day" plan of the Coterie club to raise $3,000 for a public playground. Fifty society women patrolled the city selling "tags" the purchaser fixing his own price, which ranged from a penny to $10.

A dozen youngsters, led by some wiser boy, pooled their capital, originally about a dollar, had themselves "tagged" as many times as possible by the young women, and then disposed of the "tags," thus obtaining from 500 to 1,000 per cent profit. Police were notified, but there seemed to be no law to prevent the transactions, and the youngsters pooled their "windfalls" several times to the financial harm of the playground project.

ANNIVERSARY OF ODD FELLOWS TO BE OBSERVED SUNDAY

W. R. FARRAND ADDRESSES MEN

The Presbyterian Brotherhood met Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian church to listen to an address by William R. Farrand of the Farrand Organ company in Detroit. Mr. Farrand spoke on "Men and the Church," and in his capacity of secretary of the national Brotherhood he was well qualified to speak on this matter. He gave a short history of the organizations of men in different churches and the various national conventions they had held. Various problems were pointed out that men might profitably apply themselves to solve, chiefest among which was the boy problem. In this connection he spoke with admiration of the boy scout movement. The men from the churches who were present asked many questions, which Mr. Farrand answered very clearly.

After the address a committee, consisting of Prof. B. W. Peet and Messrs. Nissly, Wells and Eddy, served refreshments. George Parsons sang a couple of songs and Marshall Byrn gave a cornet solo.

HARMON CAMPAIGN STARTED

Two Committees Appointed to Impress Country with His Fitness for High Position—Governor Wilson Also Active.

Washington, April 26.—Preliminary steps looking to a careful handling of the Harmon presidential boom have been taken. Senator Pomerene of Ohio, who has taken charge of Governor Harmon's fortunes at this end, has announced the personnel of two committees which will attend to the details of the campaign to be conducted in behalf of the Ohio executive.

One committee will be charged with the duty of drafting an address to the country setting forth Governor Harmon's qualifications for the presidency. This committee is made up of Representatives Denver, chairman, Sherwood, Aschbrook, Anderson, Francis, Claypool, Post and Whyte, all of Ohio. A second committee, also composed exclusively of Ohio members, was entrusted with the work of devising plans for the practical campaign work leading up to the Democratic national convention. This committee is made up of Representatives Cox, chairman, Sharp, Ansherry, Whitaker, Cooke, Bathrick, Aiken and Bulkeley. A formal announcement of the Harmon candidacy will be issued soon by the organization perfected by Senator Pomerene.

WEDNESDAY MAY 3 TO BE CLEAN-UP DAY

Wednesday, May 3, has been designated as clean-up day for the city of Ypsilanti. The city teams will pass along the streets, starting out probably at half after six in the morning, and gather up whatever is found set out on the curbing. It is advised therefore that the tin cans and bottles, the cellar rubbish and the attic rubbish, whatever is useless and disfigures the premises, be piled at the curbing the day before, May 2, in order that no untoward circumstance may prevent the carrying off of this assortment. Many persons complain that last year they had not understood what their part was to be in this grand clean-up process, so the fact is emphasized that the teams will not be able to retrace their ways and everything must be promptly in readiness for the occasion.

LIGHTING PLANT CHANGES HANDS

(Special to the Daily Press.)
Milan, April 26.—The village of Milan is now lighted by the Edison Light and Power company. Wiley P. Lamkin has hitherto held the contract for the lighting of the town, using steam power. This was practically the field of the Edison people and they are enabled to furnish power cheaper, so for a consideration which is generally understood to approach $10,000, Mr. Lamkin made over his franchise to this company. The last franchise granted by Milan was for a period of ten years and has already run two years and a half.

Milan possesses 21 street lights for which Mr. Lamkin has been paid $60 a year each. The 250 customers furnished lights paid at the rate of 10 cents for the first 25 kilowatts and 5 cents for the balance. These rates the Edison Light and Power company will continue.

Mr. Lamkin will dispose of his steam power plant, as his other interests demand his attention. The Edison company will transmit the power from its plant at Geddes, going down on the same line with the Saline lines.

Bankhead of Alabama, D. U. Fletcher of Florida, J. S. Williams of Mississippi, J. W. Kern of Indiana and G. M. Hitchcock of Nebraska.

NORMAL APPROPRIATION VETOED BY GOV. OSBORN

BILL GOES SAFELY THROUGH HOUSE AND SENATE BUT DIES ON GOVERNOR'S DESK—OTHER BILLS ACTED UPON

Lansing, Mich., April 26.—Governor Osborn put in a busy day Tuesday in vetoing and signing a number of bills passed during the recent session of the legislature. Six bills, some carrying appropriations, were vetoed by the governor, and the chances are that a number more will receive his disapproval today.

The bill carrying an appropriation of $125,000 for the Ypsilanti Normal school, which was to be used in building a new auditorium, was vetoed, as the governor did not think that the expenditure was warranted this year, with the present condition of the state's finances.

The Kalamazoo Normal bill, carrying with it an appropriation of $60,000 to be used in building a new science building, was stricken out.

The White bill, which received considerable attention during the session and finally passed, and which provided that the law library be taken from the present state library and made a separate department and which carried with it an appropriation to defray the expenses of such a change, was vetoed.

A number of bills were signed, chief among which was the White bill, which provided for a commission to investigate mining properties and make an appraisal of mining values in the upper peninsula and to make a report of their findings to the state board of equalization before the third Monday in August of the present year. This bill carries an appropriation of $30,000.

Another important bill that was signed by the governor was the Fowle mortgage tax bill, which does away with the present system of taxing mortgages and substitutes instead a recording fee of $5 per thousand dollars instead.

Farm House Is Destroyed By Fire

CLOTHING AND FURNITURE LOST—PARTIAL INSURANCE IN EFFECT.

The farm home and household goods of William Woolsey who resides two miles south of the city was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday night about 5 o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown. It was first discovered by a passerby who informed Mrs. Woolsey, who was raking in the yard, that her house was on fire. It was first discovered near the chimney and it is thought that a defective flue might have been the cause although it is claimed that there had been no fire in the house since noon. An effort was made to save some of the household furniture and clothing but the fire had gained too great headway and there was not enough help at hand to be of use.

The house was partially insured also the household goods.

KENT PAYS COSTS FOR CUTTING NAME IN WAITING ROOM

Daniel Kent of Detroit, a 19 year old young man, was arrested Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Charles Hipp by order of Prosecuting Attorney George Burke on a charge of marring and defacing the waiting room near the Miles street bridge which is the property of the D. J. & C. railroad. He was arraigned this morning before Justice Stadtmiller and pleaded guilty. He was given a severe reprimand and allowed to go on suspended sentence on payment of costs, $12.05.

A short time ago the D. J. & C. railroad put up a good waiting room on Miles street for the accommodation of the patrons of the line and shortly after its erection young boys and boys that were not so young began defacing it by cutting their initials on the side and seats. Kent was the first offender and cut not only his whole name but his Detroit address including his street and number.

The city officials are determined that this practice of cutting names and initials in public places shall be stopped and the next offender will probably be dealt with more severely. The limit of the law would have been 90 days imprisonment or a $100 fine.

GOOD NEWS IF TRUE.

"The conference committee on the Ypsilanti Normal school agreed to leave in the item or $125,000 for an auditorium building. Both houses adopted the committee's report."

This is one of the best bits of news, if true and it goes on and receives the governor's approval, that has come to Ypsilanti for a long time. We have needed this auditorium for a good many years, and have needed it badly. It is something that almost every citizen of the state is interested in. The crowded, staff-climbing conditions prevailing at this great state educational institution have loudly called for an auditorium building for a good many years. But the mastery of our state institution in not clamoring for things it could possibly get along without has undoubtedly delayed the realization of this auditorium much longer than it would have been delayed in almost any other state.

Governor Osborn is a man who is equipped, it seems to us, to differentiate between an apparent need like this and some of the hothouse needs that spring up during the last hours of a legislative session; and, if the governor has had any doubt, we hope he has given Ypsilanti the benefit of it, for we feel sure he will never regret having affixed his signature to an appropriation bill carrying this important item. ## NEWS BRIEFS

STATE.

ANN ARBOR.—The University of Michigan authorities have gotten out a "questionnaire" containing 37 questions which they are mailing to every student, asking for answers which may tend to help the university officials in answering letters which come to the administrative office. The students are not requested to sign their names. Some of the questions are: Why did you choose Michigan? What led you to choose your course or group of studies? What have been the expenditures of each of your college years at Michigan, including fees, living expenses, clothes, incidentals, everything exclusive of summer vacation expenses? What merits and what defects has the plan of earning one's way through college? Which plan do you consider the best (a) to plan to do in college and work one's way, or (b) to stay out and earn money for a year and then return to college? and why? What could University authorities do, if anything, to improve the conditions for students short of funds? Can you suggest any improvements? What do you consider the most important results of your college course to you, and why?—Times-News.

LANSING.—The Michigan School Superintendents' association which has met in Lansing has elected the following officers: President, J. M. Frost, Muskegon; vice-president, J. A. Doll, Houghton; secretary-treasurer, H. C. Dally, Wyandotte. They unanimously favored the free text book system for the schools of Michigan and condemned as vigorously state uniformity of text books. Resolutions were adopted providing that a committee of seven be appointed, with State Superintendent of Public Instruction L. L. Wright as its chairman, to investigate the subject of free school books and to arouse public sentiment throughout the state, to the end that the next legislature may be impelled to enact such a law. Resolutions adopted endorse the plan of state aid for industrial and agricultural education in Michigan, also the step taken toward removing the office of the state department of public instruction from politics, the mandatory township unit plan of school district for the entire state; recommend that denominational colleges as well as the University of Michigan should make more adequate provision for observation of expert teaching by prospective teachers, and ask the board of state auditors to provide funds for the continuance of the museum of the State Pioneer and Historical society.

MILLINERY IN COURT ROOM

Modern Hats Conceal the Eyes of Women Witnesses, so They Must Be Taken Off.

When designing styles in hats possibly milliners do not consider that small minority of womankind that is likely to appear in a law court. Judges, lawyers and women witnesses would appreciate it if they did.

"When a woman under suspicion takes the oath it is desirable to look her in the eye," said a lawyer, "but how can anybody look into the eye of a woman who has on a stylish hat? The court is in luck if he can see her mouth and the top end of her nose. Also it offends the dignity of the court for a woman to remove her hat; consequently they flounder between the horns of a very serious dilemma. An order to tilt her hat back is also the precursor of difficulties, because the hat is clamped down with so many pins that it won't tilt."

"Still the eyes of a woman before the bar of justice must be looked at, and under repeated exhortations she reluctantly removes the pins and shows her hat back. But that pantomime results in waste of time and loss of temper all around. In order to obviate these evils it seems to me that milliners would better busy themselves designing a tipable hat for court-room wear."

Children and Money.

My father was a minister with six children. My mother was ready to enter college with her brothers before the day of the woman's college. Now that I have children of my own, I am thankful for the thoughtful training which we six children had. We each had a small allowance, and at the close of the year, if in our home-made diaries we could show a balance in our favor, the amount of money we had saved was doubled and placed to our account in the savings bank. We then became the proud possessors of a bank book. The habit of saving, with wise supervision to prevent miserliness, makes all the difference between plenty and want in later years.

Turning Cattle Out to Pasture.

It frequently happens that cattle are turned out to pasture in the spring much earlier than conditions will warrant. There are two general causes leading to this practice, viz.: First, a shortage of feed and lack of funds to procure additional supplies, which are usually high-priced at this season of the year, and, second, an endeavor through false economy to save feed when abundant supplies are available.

As a rule, stock is turned on June grass pasture first in such places as partly cut-over woodlands, on the lowlands adjacent to streams where tenuous sod has been formed. While these lands are less subject to injury than ordinary meadows, they are nevertheless grossly abused. We have not yet come to fully appreciate the value of June grass pasture, and stock is commonly turned on too early in the spring before it gets a good start. The same thing is also true of meadows, though in a lesser degree.

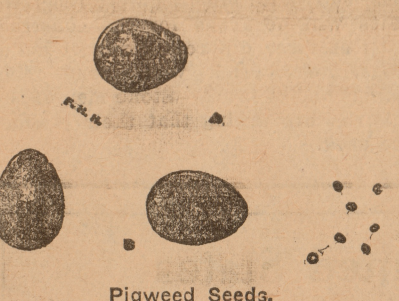

It is not good economy to force stock to rely for sustenance solely on the first watery shoots of grass in the spring; it does not furnish a sufficiency of dry matter to enable an animal to produce milk or meat abundantly, and close grazing too early in the season greatly reduces the later growth.

Two Very Obnoxious Weeds.

By Professor R. J. Baldwin of the M. A. C.

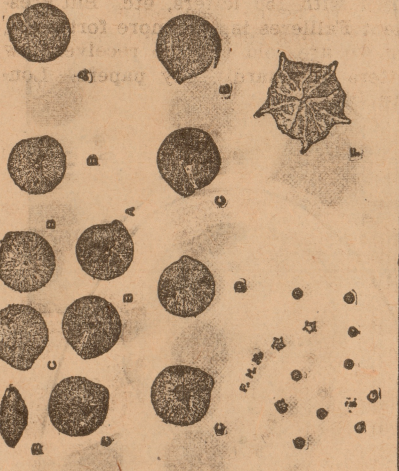

THE rough pigweed and lambs' quarters are two of the most troublesome weeds which infest cultivated crops. They germinate and grow at the season when beans and corn are being cultivated and are so inconspicuous at that time as to pass unnoticed, while thistles and other weeds are being hoed out. Later, however, they grow rapidly and attain a size often nearly as high as corn, and shorten the crop by crowding and by wasting soil fertility. The roots are very woody and the stems strong, thus being a nuisance and expense in harvesting corn and pulling beans. The number of these weeds can be very considerably reduced if the land which is intended for cultivated crops is ploughed early and worked over at intervals up to the time of planting. During the last ten days before putting in the seed, quantities of these weeds may be germinated and destroyed by harrowing, thus leaving the land much cleaner for the crop. If possible to secure labor, it is a good investment to have the weeds that are missed in cultivation taken out with the hoe. These weeds are often given wide distribution by being allowed to grow around the yards and lanes, where they can leave their seeds to be taken to the fields in the manure or in the mud clinging to the feet of animals.

The rough pigweed (amaranthus retrofractus), sometimes called redroot, has coarse, rough leaves and prickly, rough seed spikes. The plant is much branched, each branch bearing a compound pike with a quantity of seed.

The seeds, Fig. 1, are smooth, highly polished, jet black, double convex, broadly ovate with a slight notch at the narrow end; (a) and (b) show the seeds enlarged; (c) shows them natural size.

The lambs' quarters (chenopodium album) grows taller and less branching than rough pigweed. Its leaves are smooth, somewhat arrow-shaped and inclined to be whitish on the under side. The angular stem grows straight and in a crumbly green mass which contains the seeds. The seeds, Fig. 2, are dull and unless very ripe and dry retain a covering; (g) shows the seeds natural size.

Descends Metropolitan Life Building's 45 Flights on Toes.

Miss Mazie King recently walked down the forty-five flights of stairs in the Metropolitan Life Insurance building, New York, on her toes. The trip, which covered 2,000 steps, was made in fourteen minutes and without stopping. Until the last fifteen flights Miss King walked rather slowly, but on these she came down almost on a run. The feat is regarded as one of the most remarkable tests of endurance.

PATCHWORK AN ANCIENT

It Had Its Origin Many Ages Ago but Now Is Distinctly An American Institution.

The idea that patchwork had its origin in America is not founded on fact. A thousand years before the Christian era a queen of Egypt went down the Nile to her last resting place under a wonderful canopy of skins that were dyed and pieced together in a mosaic pattern. Years before this work had reached perfection and acquired a definite place among the arts. Then, too, patchwork quilts were made in England in the eighteenth century, as witness the lines written by Cowper to a Mrs. King upon receipt of "A kind present of a patchwork quilt of her own making."

Patchwork is distinctly an American institution. In this big new country, where woman's work was never done, where even the few conveniences of the day were lacking, women had no time to spend on any but the practical things of life. The mothers of this nation left behind them no wonderful historical needlework, like the Gobelin tapestries of France and the beautiful laces of Italy. There were all too few to attend to the spinning and weaving and household duties in the homes where dwelt not only the large family, but the hired help as well.—Charlotte F. Boldt-mann in Woman's Home Companion.

Map of Borderland Where Mexicans Are Fighting;
Two of Uncle Sam's Army Officers on the Scene.

The accompanying map shows the important points along the Mexican border where serious fighting has been going on. Brigadier General Joseph W. Duncan, commanding the department of Texas, is in charge of the border patrol, whose business it is to see that the neutrality laws are not violated by either Mexicans or Americans. Colonel Fred Sibley, commanding the department of Colorado, has been ordered to make his headquarters at Douglas, Ariz., where American citizens were killed and wounded by shots fired across the border by Mexicans in a fight between federal troops and revolutionists.

In Mexico from morning until night he led the insurgents in the fight. Shouting, "Viva libertad!" All the weapons that he had were baseball bats and sticks of dynamite.

At wrecking bridges he was surely great. He tore up every railroad in the state. Oh, a patriot was he. Although he turned out to be an American and Harvard graduate!

Here's another insurrection boldly swoops down upon a body of federal troops. He filled them with fright. And he smote them left and right. And while he fights he wildly yells and whoops.

He surely understands the fighting game. And already he has won a lasting fame. At maneuver or at rally. He is one grand hot tamale. And Giuseppe Garibaldi is his name.

One morning when the fighting all was done. And the troops were cheering for the victory won. Stretched out upon the sand. With a saber in his hand.

They found their leader lying in the sun. He was only slightly wounded in the knee. So they carried him until they found a tree. Laid him in a shady place. Washed the dust from off his face. And he proved to be Matsuro Hokiach.

When we read of the exploits of comrades three.

We did not even guess who they could be. But, like the musketeers. Whose memory endears. They are noted for their skill and bravery.

But the news we got from Mexico one day. Told us how they came off victors in the fray.

How they battled side by side. By the Rio Grande's tide. And we found their names were Kelly, Burke and Shea.

—Richard Linthicum in New York World.

Bearnaise Sauce.

Bearnaise sauce, which is usually much appreciated when served with a filet de boeuf, or veal cutlets, is merely hollandaise with a teaspoonful of finely chopped tarragon, a small quantity of chervil and a few drops of tarragon vinegar added the last thing before being served. It is well to note that a delicate sauce of the above description would be likely to curdle if poured into a tureen which has been made very hot.

Gherkin Sauce.

Gherkin sauce, which is often preferred, when a sauce of this description is required, to caper sauce, may be made by adding some chopped gherkins to some good white sauce which has been sharpened with a few drops of the pickle in which the gherkins were preserved and a small quantity of tarragon vinegar.

Anchovy Sauce.

For a rich anchovy sauce make half a pint of melted butter and add half an ounce of fresh butter which has been worked up with two teaspoonfuls of essence of anchovy and stir in three or four drops of curative to improve the color, or, if preferred, fish stock may be used instead of milk.

Maitre d'Hotel Sauce.

Maitre d'hotel sauce can be quickly made in the same way as anchovy sauce by substituting one ounce of maitre d'hotel butter for the anchovy butter, but for this milk without water should be used for the white sauce.

Six Quills to a Novel.

The use of quill pens is by no means confined to government offices and the gentlemen who point with them at unhappy witnesses. A habitual writer, for instance, confesses that he never willingly used a steel pen since he was out of the control of schoolmasters. He always used quills until the triumphant fountain pen provided him with a reasonable substitute, and that more because of its convenience than its efficiency. Several well-known novelists still stick to the quill; it is, indeed, the only writing implement with any personality—if it is refractory you can coax it. The mending of a quill does not require much practice, and you can buy, for a small sum, a little machine that does it for you beautifully. You may easily write 15,000 words with one quill, mending it four times, which gives six quills to the novel. So the cost of novel writing is small—stated in terms of quills.

Badge of Servitude.

Would-be aristocrats in America who are wont to decorate the hats of their coachmen with cockades are probably ignorant of the fact that from a European standpoint the cockade is only used to show that the wearer is a servant of royalty. Across the water the cockade can be legally worn only by servants of royalty, including naval and military officers, diplomats, lieutenants, deputy lieutenants and high sheriffs of counties. As worn by these, the color is black. The black cockade was introduced in England by the house of Hanover, although previous thereto it had been worn in various colors. A scarlet cockade was in vogue during the time of Charles I. His son adopted white, the badge of the Jacobites, while orange was the color of William of Orange. Orange remains the color in the Netherlands. Black and white is the color in Germany, black and yellow in Australia, tricolor in France, scarlet in Spain, blue and white in Portugal—that is before the revolution—and black, red and yellow in Belgium. The word "cockade" comes from the French "co-card", originally applied to the feathers of the cock worn by Croatian soldiers serving in the French army.

Take Kaiser to Task.

Emperor William of Germany is in receipt of a singular petition forwarded to Berlin by the Passale (N. J.) Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. It calls attention to the fact that "in the fine equestrian statue of your majesty erected at the entrance to the new railway bridge at Cologne the tail of the horse is docked." The petition sets forth that "your majesty is no doubt aware that the docking of the horse's tail constitutes one of the worst cruelties practiced on a dumb beast." It adds: "In our humble opinion it would be a mistake to leave the statue in its present form. A beautiful long tail might be put in the place of the stump. Such an alteration would not only add much to the beauty of the statue, but would also stop adverse criticism regarding your majesty's feelings toward a humane cause." The emperor has not yet replied to the petition.

Chinese Will Take Part.

Dresden is planning for an exposition devoted to the cause of hygiene, sports and their allied interests. According to advance information this exposition, which hitherto has not been very much talked about, is likely to surprise by its perfection of detail and architectural beauty—as might be expected of Dresden.

That the exposition will be world-wide in its scope is evinced by the fact that the executive committee has just received plans from the Chinese for the erection of an imposing Chinese section. It is proposed to erect a large hall for this purpose, and an imposing pagoda will be erected as a demonstration of Chinese architectural development.

A Few Words About Clean Milk.

By A. C. Anderson, Professor of Dairy Husbandry, of the M. A. C.

WITH our modern knowledge of the superior value of all dairy products as a source of human food there has naturally come an increased interest in the conditions surrounding the production of these foods. Further, our better knowledge of the causes of many diseases and the manner of dissemination teach us more and more to associate pure foods with health, and impure foods with disease. Milk and milk products from the nature of their source and the agencies surrounding their manufacture and handling have been found favorable carriers for some of the very serious diseases common to the human family. Ignorance of these facts has caused a great deal of human suffering and the loss of much human life.

Much has been said and written regarding the production of clean milk. The different phases of the subject have been treated, and widely different sets of rules have been laid down for the dairyman to follow. Some of these rules have been extravagant and impractical, if not altogether impossible. Many of them, however, have been sane and feasible; all have been actuated by a wholesome desire to improve our food products and thus prevent the loss of human life through ignorance and neglect.

One of the essential factors in the production of clean milk is the dairyman himself. He should by nature be neat, tidy and clean. A sloven may live in a palace, and many a palace with its elaborate equipment is unkempt, while often times the humble cottage with its simple, almost primitive, appointments is immaculate.

The matter of cleanliness is a good deal of a personal factor, and clean healthy people are a necessity in the production of clean milk.

A clean, healthy cow in a clean, well-lighted, well-ventilated stable are also essentials. The light and ventilation are not so absolutely essential but both are closely associated with the health of the cattle. Then, too, a dark stable is very apt to be dirty, and an unventilated one usually contains a surplus of odors injurious to milk.

It is surprising to see how many farmers and dairymen never groom their cows. A curry comb and brush used intelligently for one minute each day will keep a cow clean and respectable; her milk will suffer much less contamination, and she will be a source of pride and satisfaction to her keeper.

A stable with smooth walls and ceiling furnishes much less opportunity for the lodgment of dust and dirt and is much easier to clean and disinfect but many very ordinary stables are kept clean. Cement floors are more sanitary than wooden ones and are also easier to clean. Stables where the spatters from the gutter are allowed to accumulate on the side walls often form a thickening crust from year to year, are entirely unsuited to producing a clean milk.

The spiders are ever active with their webs, and frequent, vigorous sweepings are necessary in order to prevent these webs from becoming dust laden and constant disseminators of dirt and germs.

Many valuable utensils are on the market intended for the help of the dairyman in keeping his cattle, his farm and his milk clean and whole some. The very best equipment, however, will not furnish clean milk without an intelligent, vigorous operator to use it. While a very good grade of milk can be produced with very ordinary utensils, sufficient painstaking care must be exercised.

Aside from the factors named, the matter of temperatures is extremely important. Consignments of milk are frequently condemned with the command "Clean up" when the seat of the difficulty is not a matter of cleanliness, but a lack of proper management after being drawn. If milk is immediately aerated and cooled to a temperature of 50 degrees and then kept at that temperature, or below one may know that if difficulties arise they are probably not due to temperature.

As to Juggleworth.

"Old Juggleworth died at an advanced age, didn't he?" "On the contrary, he died at a greatly reduced age. He was really 20 years older than he said he was."
